

PERSONAL AND SOCIETY

VIEWS OF A YOUNG MARRIED MAN ON SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

Prefers the Quiet of His Own Fireside to an Evening Out-Movement of People.

The season has arrived for the woman who fans. She may have carried her fan all winter. In fact, there are many women who never go without a fan. The day last winter, when the heaviest furs were all too light, the woman had her fan with her, and sure enough she used it. She always uses it when she is in a crowd. She never fails to use it in church. It may be that the one sitting next to her is not troubled for air, but the woman with a fan will feel it as breezes. Particularly is this true with the one who sits in front. Not satisfied with fanning herself, she wastes her energies in sending the wind across the neck and shoulders of the poor victim in front. If there is one thing above another that is enough to drive one frantic, it is to have spasmodic shafts of air sent down one's neck. Not only is it nerve-racking, but it also produces a cold in the head which leads to discomfort and frequently to a physician's bill. A woman may fan herself as much as she pleases, but she might be thoughtful enough not to fan the neighbor in front of her. Let every matron do her own fanning.

"I suppose Jessie will want to go to Katherine's party to-night, and I am just dead tired," said a young husband, as he rode home on the car at 6 o'clock. "I do not believe the young wives, who love society, realize what a sacrifice it is for the husband to give up an evening of rest at home, to go on his dress suit and go to a party to stand around and talk or to dance until 11 o'clock or midnight. I know Jessie never gets up in the morning after a party and she invariably takes a nap after luncheon. She feels bright and fresh as a bird at a party, but wonders why I would rather stay stupidly at home after dinner than to go out and have a good time. I would not disappoint her for anything to-night, as she has a new gown ready for the party. I have none of the excitement of new clothes for my fan, and that's three years ago. Well, good-bye, I'll see you at the party to-night, I suppose," and he swung himself off the car at his corner.

The junior class of the High School gave a reception yesterday afternoon to the members of the senior class in the assembly hall. Elaborate preparations were made for the event and there were decorations of flags, rugs and flowers. The senior colors are American beauty and white and the junior colors are pink and green. The landing on the stairs was in the senior colors and the floor and the decorations at the table where they were seated were in the junior colors. The members of the faculty and the mothers assisted in the reception and entertainment. The officers of the class are: President, Alfred Ogilvie; vice president, Miss Lillian Atkins; secretary, Miss Ruth Allen; treasurer, Albert Coffin. There were music and dancing. SODA IN HUMAN BODIES.

A Very Much Needed Worker.

Very delicate particles of soda appear in field grains such as used by mankind.

The use made of natural soda, or Sodium Sulphate, is to oxidize the sugar in the body, thereby decomposing it and making it suitable for rebuilding the cells and preserving the bile and pancreatic juices at normal conditions.

When a person fails to use food containing this important little worker, the sugar in the body is not properly cared for and seeks escape through the kidneys, causing Diabetes. A lack of the Sodium Sulphate is also shown by yellowing of the bile becomes thick when its little solvent is absent. Sodium Sulphate is not readily taken up by the body when given as a drug, but is quickly absorbed when furnished in Nature's way as stored in food, and in that way it is found in Grape-Nuts, the most scientifically prepared food made by man.

Why? Because in Grape-Nuts the pure natural elements needed by man are preserved and presented fresh from Nature's own laboratory.
